BRIFLETS.

—Crystal Temple of Honor No. 22 will assemble in regular weekly session this evening in their hall in the Judd block, North Main street.

—Profiting by the experience of Milwaukee and Chicago, Janesville should insist that her water works furnish dineeumns free to each patron.

—At the municipal court this afternoon, a room full of sensation-seekers had a chance to listen to the complainant's testimony in the Elford case.

—The Beloit firm of McGair & Perkins has been dissolved by Judge Bennett and John Menzies has been instructed to prepare an account.

—Rock Legion Select Knights, will assemble in regular semi-monthly session this evening—Lodge room in the Leppin block, East Milwaukee street.

—Xenon Mills, who was kicked by a horse on Saturday, is in a much worse condition than was supposed. His injuries have proved to be very serious.

—There is to be an increase in the Western Union force at the local office. A clerk and one additional messenger is to be employed, because of the increase of business.

—This morning the motion to confirm G. G. Suberland's report as referee in the case of Carroll against Little, was put over until April 4th to which date the circuit court has adjourned.

—Now that the signal service has promised as warm weather, spring poems can be had in all shapes and sizes at this office. Prices very low, as we must make room for our summer stock.

—Mrs. D. R. Stout and daughter Idella, wish to express their appreciation for the kindness and sympathy which they have received from their friends in their sad hour of bereavement.

—The annual meeting of the Janesville Prohibition club for the election of officers, and transaction of general business will be held at the office of William Street, on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

—The Woman's Foreign Mission Circle of Court Street church will meet on Wednesday, March 23, at the home of Mrs. S. D. Conant at 3:30 p. m. This meeting includes the regular session of the Missionary Tea.

—County Treasurer Miles, who has recovered sufficiently to take charge of his office again, is kept busy receiving the county tax. There are now only fifteen days left for the various towns to make a settlement.

—It is rumored that one of the large shoe manufacturers of Chicago, employing over 300 hands, wants to remove to this city. The proprietor is anxious to get into a small city to be free from the socialist elements. Where is our committee on such interests?

—Superintendent Atwood, of the street railway company has received word that two car loads of iron and a supply of lumber for the Oak Hill extension of the line are now on their way. Track laying will be commenced as soon as the frost leaves the ground.

—There was a runaway on the east side this morning, the horses starting from the Milwaukee street bridge and being stopped by a bitting post in the third ward. Mr. L. F. Dennwiddie, who was driving, was thrown out but laid on pluck and almost stopped the animal before he lost his hold.

—A refusal to pay higher wages, while the tobacco business continued as it is just now, made the strippers at Baines & Hedges warehouse go out on a miniature strike this morning. No commotion in trade circles is expected, however, as the strikers numbered only a little over half a dozen. A new force will begin work to-morrow.

—While G. W. Ford, the Beloit Salvation Army rider, was here on trial, there was a case pending against him at Delavan. He was charged with mingling croton oil with candy to the detriment and uneasiness of the truck factory girls, who ate the candy. The case has now been decided, and Ford has been acquitted.

—Robert Nelson, the nominee for mayor of Chicago, on the labor ticket, was born at Milton Junction, in this county, thirty-one years ago. He has been a resident of Chicago for eight years. Two months ago he was made Master Workman of District Assembly No. 24. He is a molder by trade, and at one time was Master Workman of the molders local assembly at his present home.

—Another small audience was at the opera house on Saturday evening and were greatly pleased with the fine acting of Miss Maude Granger as "Camille."

She is by far the best emotional actress that ever visited this city. We understand Miss Granger will visit Janesville next season.

—A flanger that was being used on the Northwestern road between here and again next season, when it is hoped she will be accorded a worthy reception.

—Mr. M. T. Riker, superintendent of the manufacturing department of Wm. Sessler's harness shop in this city, has completed and will ship to Mr. N. Thomas, Chicago, a single Rockway harness, nickel mounted, retail, price $90. This is the only harness of the kind ever manufactured in this city, and those qualified to judge who have examined it, say it is one of the finest ever turned out. It is truly a fine piece of work, and reflects credit both upon the establishment and the workman.

—In the case of James A. Kelly, administrator, against Nowlan & Bentley, the jury has disagreed. This action was brought by the heirs of James Kelly, who was killed by the fall of the capitol building in Madison, and the real question was whether the firm or the state itself was the responsible party. There was a great deal of testimony produced to show that the fault was in the plan and not in the work. This case was regarded as a test to determine in some degree the merits of the cases—about ten in number—that arose from the same source. William Rogers, of this city, and Attorneys Bird, of Madison, and Fish, of Milwaukee, appeared for the defendants, while Lamb & Jones were for the plaintiff.

—It is now only five weeks until the municipal election takes place, and yet but very few candidates are at the front. No one appears to want the office of mayor, and only now and then a candidate appears for the ward office. Unless the people take hold of the matter the election will be a very tame affair, and yet constituted candidates will be victorious. The many interests at stake in the city demand more than a passing thought from the electors. The offices to be elected at this election are a mayor, city clerk, a school commissioner and a justice of the peace, all for two years; a water commissioner for five years; an alderman for two years in each of the wards; a school commissioner for two years in the first, third and fifth wards; and a supervisor and constable in each ward for one year.

—While Ed. Coe, chief clerk of the assembly, was on his way home from Milwaukee the other day, he fell in with some Janesville men. Their stories of the Bower City's growth fairly dazzled him and to this fact, probably, should be laid the blame for his recklessness. He entered the cars, looked around a moment then tossed his valise into a clothes basket that some one had hung over the seat and settled back in a reverie where "out out," "water works," "the most promising city in the state," "direct pressure," "St. Paul throughline," "four hundred gallons a minute" and "Salvation Army" jostled his legislative ideas all out of shape. He knew nothing of the outside world until it was time to look for his valise. "Remember putting it in that bundle rack," he said, "but it isn't there now." Just then a brakeman said, "Either you or some other man put a valise in the basket that was taken out at Waukegan." And Ed. sighed and started for the baggage car where there was more frost air.

—Rush D. Simmons, formerly connected with the Gazette, but now of Lake Mills, was in the city over Sunday.

—Frank B. White has returned from an extended trip through the east, taken in the interest of the Commercial Union.

—Mr. Geo. C. Hold, of Waverly, Iowa, spent Sunday in the city. He is engaged in the hardware business at Waverly, and leaves to-morrow for the west.

—John W. Manning, formerly proprietor of a commission office here, has been smiling upon Janesville friends once more. He is now running a passenger train out of Minneapolis.

—Rev. Dr. Conover will start for his new home in Michigan to-morrow morning. Those that wish to see him this evening will find him at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Doe, on Milwaukee street.

—Fred Teppelman, of the telephone office, is to leave within a few days for Racine. He is to have the position of inspector for the telephone exchange in that city. Fred understands his business thoroughly, and the company evidently appreciate it.

—Paul E. Derrick passed through the city to-day on his way from Broadhead where he spent Sunday. Mr. Derrick was formerly connected with the Commercial Union is now western advertising agent for the weekly edition of the Chicago Evening Journal.

—Mr. and Mrs. E. Leavitt of this city, arrived at Pasadena, California, February 10th, and are now enjoying the beautiful climate of southern California, in the neighborhood of San Jose. They had a pleasant trip across the continent, but met with a big storm when nearing their destination, compelling them to complete their journey in carriages, the heavy rains destroying railway bridges. Their many friends at home will be pleased to learn that they are enjoying the excursion to the Pacific slope, and that they will soon be home again.

—The Chicago "recommutation" came in there was not a snow-plover again in the Northwestern yard and a step was made until one came in from the north. After that the train went through without much trouble. All of the freight, however, were abandoned as it was not thought best to run the risk of blockaded. The Sunday morning train to Atton was also given up, but at noon there was no interruption. Snow plows and flangers were run between here and Fond du Lac most of the day, and by night the line was again clear.

—On the Milwaukee & St. Paul less trouble was experienced although the morning freight was abandoned, and some vigorous plowing was done before everything was put in running order.

A flanger that was being used on the Northwestern road between here and again next season, when it is hoped she will be accorded a worthy reception.

He knew nothing of the outside world until it was time to look for his valise. "Remember putting it in that bundle rack," he said, "but it isn't there now." Just then a brakeman said, "Either you or some other man put a valise in the basket that was taken out at Waukegan." And Ed. sighed and started for the baggage car where there was more frost air.

AT THE CHURCHES.

Dr. Conover in His Farewell Gives the Reasons for His Departure.

OTHER SERMONS IN THE JANESVILLE PLACES OF WORSHIP.

TRINITY CHURCH.

Dr. J. F. Conover preached his farewell sermon yesterday morning. He said:

"With to-day my duties as rector of this parish terminate. My term of service here has not been as long as I expected or hoped. I had personally nothing to do with coming here. The call came unsought, at a time when I was soon to be disengaged and I felt satisfied that the finger of God pointed me to this work. And so personally I have had nothing to do with my going away. I have not sought to go away. The call to my new field of labor came to me unsought and unexpected, by no procurement of mine. Twice before I have been called from this work and declined. Why should I go now? I will tell you."

"First, I have felt for some time that the parish was paying more for the support of its worship than it could afford. This has been apparent in the fact that every year the parish has run in debt. I have felt that this ought not to be and that the salary paid me was too large for the income of the parish."

"Second, no stated arrangement was made annually to either pay or avoid that deficiency. That was contrary to my fixed opinion of what is right. I did not want the parish burdened with debt, and yet under such an arrangement that was inevitable."

"The debt must be paid somehow. It is easier to pay a small debt than a large one. So I asked myself, why is not this deficiency paid each year as it occurs?"

"On reflection I discovered the reasons to be either that the parish was unable to pay the required sum; or it was unwilling. If unable, that settled the matter and the expenditure must be diminished. Certainly the parish is not as able as it used to be. Of late years it has lost by death and removal many persons of comfortable means."

"If unwilling, why unwilling? There must be reasons for that. The reason naturally suggested would be dissatisfaction with the present order of parish administration or a solid indifference that did not care whether the worship in the parish was supported or not. In either of these events a rector would find small encouragement to continue his work in this particular field. I am simply giving you the working of my own mind in this matter. There are some facts that seem to confirm both these views: viz: diminishing help in parish work; poor attendance on service; casualness in the parish, especially about the music; small offerings; personal evidences of dissatisfaction."

"Just at this time the unsought call to another field of labor came, and I felt that whatever work God designed me to do here I had done and that it was His will I should go elsewhere. No doubt He will make this more plain to you and to me."

The speaker then referred to the church improvements that have been made, and paid for without adding anything to the debt.

"I am glad to believe," he continued, "that my work here has not been unfruitful. It has been conducted without marked disturbance in the parish. It has followed the guidance of the church, endeavored to hold all its services and bring out all its teaching. It has kept the parish in line with the diocese. I have responded to the needs of the personal church. It has observed the tradition of the parish. It has endeavored to restore and re-educate with the parish those who had wandered away or were lapsed. In this way it has restored the former membership of the parish, and there have been added about twenty families not hitherto on the parish register. The large size, well-drilled chorale choir is a most marked addition. The Sunday school has increased in numbers and efficiency, has been well supplied with all requisites and added two-thirds to the number of volumes in the library. The mothers' meeting, the sewing school, the Women's Auxiliary have been added with such values as
